- press text -

Elvellon is a very promising newcomer-band from the German Symphonic Metal scene. Through a combination of orchestral sound, hard riffs and the extraordinary voice of frontwoman Nele the five musicians hit right at the heart of the listener. If one lets himself be carried off into their world of magic, he will find a journey between childish wonder and hard hearted bitterness. Even though they have clearly defined musical roots, Elvellon try not to serve a specific scene, but rather let themselves be guided by the music itself. Their lyrics show a range of snapshots in a dreamlike story, in which anyone can find himself in.

In early 2013 the band began an intense working phase, the fruits of which were shown in November of the same year in front a big live-audience. The response was so overwhelming that the band put all the gained motivation into the creation of their first CD. After the release of the two online singles „Oraculum“ and „Born From Hope“ the self-recorded 5-track EP „Spellbound“ came out on the 30th of January 2015, which was released as a physical disc as well as in digital form. Following that they have received consistent positive feedback in form of online-reviews and fanmail.

If you want to experience Elvellon live, you should be prepared for a show full of cinematic magic and a passionate performance you shouldn't miss out on!

- short biography -

In 2010 the founding members Pascal and Martin laid the foundation for what later should become Elvellon. The writing of the music was not a planned process but a natural one and at first was a undefined development from many sources of inspiration. After Martin met their soon-to-be singer Nele by sheer coincidence on a party in late summer of the same year the band was able to find their own musical way.

In 2012 they came to know Gilbert, who played in another Band from their hometown Moers named „Ravian“ with whom they just shared a rehearsal room. First he helped out the band by recording some demos and became a regular member on New Year’s Eve. Since then the band felt more complete than ever and the progression accelerated at a great pace. The main reasons for that were an extended period of hard working on new songs, a lyrical concept and suitable artwork.

An early outcome of this process was their very first concert, which they played in front of 250 people. The reactions were so overwhelming and numerous that Elvellon put all that gained motivation into their first CD. On the 18th of October 2013 they released the single „Oraculum“ via Bandcamp.com . A 5-Track EP named „Spellbound“ followed on the 30th of January 2015 as a digital release as well as physical CD.

The band spend most of their time in 2015 on stage, like at the M’era Luna and Rage Against Racism Festival. They also also made first experiences in neighbouring foreign countries. Elvellon is currently working on their first album.
